No Halloween outfit would be complete without awesome makeup, so with October 31 fast approaching, we turned to the runway for a little bewitching beauty inspiration.

Catwoman

Cat eyes ruled the catwalks this season. Why not channel your inner feline with a strong swoop of Revlon's black noir eyeliner along the upper lash line, as seen backstage at Anna Sui. Just add whiskers!

Cyber Geisha

Michael Kors, Christian Dior and Jason Wu added accentuated eyes in metallic blues and violets. Add a light tap of high-wattage color, like Marc Jacobs Lip Gel in All The Way, to the middle of your lips for that subtle geisha bow shade.

Vampire Femme Fatale

Smoky eyes and pale, translucent skin were the order of the day at Lanvin. Drive the look home with dark plum lips, like the tones used at Vera Wang's fall 2013 runway show. For just the right amount of vamp, try Aerin's signature lipstick in Mercer.

Bewitching

Who says witches can't be sexy? Smudged, oil-slick smoky eyes were the focus at the Roberto Cavalli and Francesco Scognamiglio shows. Complete the look with shimmering dark nails—Ciate's polish in Twilight is the perfect shade of black, with on-trend green and gold glitter accents.

Marie Antoinette

Capture the extravagance of Marie Antoinette by investing in a large, powdered wig, then add a little decadence to even the smallest detail by using Revlon's new 3D wraps. The silk rosette design layered over Revlon's nail enamel in Rich takes the cake. Don't forget your beauty spot!
